Gainesville, FL -- If you have questions on sprucing up your home or garden, the 10th annual North Central Florida's Home Show has the answers! The Home Show will take place this weekend March 14th and March 15th at the Stephen C. O'Connell Center. Presented by the Builders Association of North Central Florida (BANCF) and The Gainesville Sun, this informative show will feature products and services related to home improvement, landscaping, remodeling, decorating, home sales, energy efficient, and green building techniques. In addition to the many home and garden exhibits, the Home Show will also include informational seminars and a Farmers Market.

“March is usually the time of year when people are thinking about fixing up their yard, doing a remodeling project or thinking of buying a new home. The Home Show is unique in that it provides an opportunity for people to get ideas, have questions answered and to see the latest home products all in one place and all at one time,” said Adam Bolton, BANCF President.

This year an “Ask the Professional” series has been added to the Home Show. It will consist of five topics that will be presented both Saturday and Sunday; Ask the Gardener, Ask the Remodeler, Ask about Green Building, Ask about Solar Energy and Ask about Home Technology.

The Home Show will be open from 10am to 6pm on Saturday, March 14th and from 11am to 5pm on Sunday, March 15th. Admission is $4.00 per person with children 16 & under free. The O'Connell Center is located at the corner of West University Ave. and Gale Lemerand Drive at the University of Florida. Parking is free. A Home Show program will be inserted in the March 14th edition of The Gainesville Sun.

Vendors and event organizers will be on hand during set-up all day on Friday, March 13th to answer questions about the Home Show.
