The great disappearing act

or

(How to make your components invisible)

Like a modern Mona Lisa, your new plasma hangs on the wall, slim, elegant, and full of style. Next to it hangs a perfectly matched pair of low profile speakers. It all whispers of restraint and sophistication, at least until you spot the three tons of electronics and wiring squatting below like a giant toad.

So much for suave? No, wait! How would you like to hide the electronics in some distant closet and still have full remote control? We knew you would say that. With Elan’s IR remote systems you can place your gear anywhere in the house. Put it in a cabinet, armoire, pantry, you name it. All you will ever have to look at is one little remote eye about the size of a tack head. I bet you can live with that.

Come on down to Sound Ideas where our CEDIA-trained design team can get you back into high style. Sound Ideas, serving Gainesville’s home theater and audio needs since 1977.
